WAGON KILLS MAN IN FALL DOWN SHAFT

Steps Backward from Elevator Opening, Pulling Vehicle on Top of Him.

As a result of a ghastly "joke" or of criminal mishlef, Ignace Zarko, twentyeight years old, was crushed to death early to-day under a wagon which he clutched as he fell through a thirdstory elevator opening.

Zarko's tragic death occurred in Solomon Henig's boarding and livery stable at Nos. 54-58 Attorney street in the presence of about two score drivers and peddlers who had called to get their outfits. The stable is three stories high, the horses being kept in the basement and the wagons stored on the second and third floors. An open sided elevator is used to bring down the vehicles. Zerko went up after the wagon of Max Trachtenberg, a peddler. As he started he shouted to the men to not tamper or touch the elevator, as he was going after a wagon. In spite of his warning, some one did start the elevator down while Zarko was busy pulling Trachtenberg's wagon to the lift. Unconscious of the fact that the elevator was no longer over the opening in the third floor. Zarko backed into in the third floor. Zarko backed into the space and fell without a cry, builing the wagon on top of him. His body was frightfully mangled.

Policeman George Brown, of the Delancey street station, summoned an ambulance. Dr. Bell, of Gouverneur Hospital, pronounced Zarko dead. The police are seeking to locate the person who had tampered with the elevator. Zarko lived in the stables.
